Allianz US Short Duration High Income Bond

Monthly commentary

Investment Objective

The Fund aims at long-term income and lower volatility by investing in short duration high yield rated corporate debt securities of US bond markets.

What Happened in July

The high yield market finished higher in July. The Q2 earnings season got off to a solid start with most companies exceeding top- and bottom-line estimates. Cost controls, operating efficiencies, increasing capital expenditures and steady consumption factored into the results. Corporate management outlooks varied, however. Economic reports were also mixed. Q2 gross domestic product (GDP) growth, retail sales, and monthly payrolls surpassed forecasts, and inflation gauges continued to ease. Conversely, manufacturing remained in contractionary territory, home sales missed estimates, and weekly jobless claims moved higher. Against this backdrop, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) kept interest rates unchanged at the July Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) meeting, but Chair Jerome Powell noted if economic data continues its current path, "a reduction in our policy rate could be on the table as soon as the next meeting in September".

The ICE BofA US High Yield Index returned +1.96% for the month.*

Credit-quality subsector returns for the month*:

- BB rated bonds: +1.59%.
- B rated bonds: +1.78%.
- CCC rated bonds: +4.00%.

Spreads widened to 321 basis points (bps) from 325 bps, the average bond price rose to 94.37, and the market's yield fell to 7.79%.*

All industries finished higher with Telecoms, Cable, and Media outperforming, while Packaging/Paper, Transportation, and Retail underperformed.

Trailing 12-month default rates were flat at 1.78% (par) and 1.80% (issues).^ The upgrade/downgrade ratio decreased to 1.9.^

New issuance saw 31 issues priced, raising USD 19.5 billion in proceeds.^ High yield funds reported estimated net flows of +USD 4.5 billion.^

Portfolio Review

The portfolio (net of fees) provided a positive monthly return and continued to serve as a fixed income diversifier with the goals of preserving capital, generating high income, and providing liquidity.

The Fund remains an attractive and actively managed solution as investors adjust to high-for-longer rates without taking excessive credit risk or price volatility in passive fixed income strategies. In the current market environment, the Fund can purchase securities at discounts to par, or selectively invest in high coupon new issue producing yields well above money market accounts, management fees, and hedging expenses.

Fundamental research, credit analysis, low duration, and liquidity are key tenants and goals that seeks to strike an attractive balance between risk, opportunity and expected return. The shorter maturity profile of the Fund should protect capital going forward as there are fewer years to repayment to close the average price discount. Goals are unchanged to reinvest capital prudently to defend and evaluate credit risk and company fundamentals against a challenging global environment.

Since inception nearly 15 years ago, the Fund remains US centric with coupons and repayment of principal in US dollars. The portfolio is focused on energy, transportation leasing and infrastructure. The portfolio continued to stay up in quality while generally avoiding the lowest quality credits with average credit quality in the portfolio unchanged at B1/B+. Emphasis remains on credit selection, liquidity, and downside risk mitigation versus the broader market.

The Fund is an actively managed solution with historically relatively high security turnover. This active approach to security selection and portfolio construction should also allow the Fund to avoid some of the riskiest segments of the market further mitigating downside volatility. Passive strategies may carry greater tail risk and show greater dispersion of investment returns. The Fund selectively invests in opportunities that may present lower price volatility, risk-adjusted returns in line within the mandate, investment philosophy and Fund guidelines and importantly seeks to side-step and avoid many of the risks not appreciated by markets.

Performance in the period benefitted from industry weightings and a consistent fundamental credit selection framework. Industries contributing the most to performance were Utilities, Financial Services, and Energy. There were no industries that detracted from performance.

Liquidity remained in focus to pay distributions, meet redemptions and to take advantage of reinvestment opportunities. New purchases included issues in Automotive Retail, Commercial & Residential Mortgage Finance, and Financial Exchanges & Data. Sells consisted of issues in Cable & Satellite and Consumer Finance.

Market Outlook

2023's economic momentum has carried over into 2024. Economic tailwinds include a healthy labour market, steady consumption, government spending, elevated household net worth, an end to the rate hike cycle, and accelerating earnings. Economic headwinds include persistent inflation, restrictive monetary policy, prolonged yield curve inversion, less personal savings, and US/international political risks, among others.

The US high yield market, yielding nearly 8%, offers the potential for equity-like returns but with less volatility. Credit fundamentals are stable, near-term refinancing obligations remain low, and management teams continue to prioritise debt reduction. Given these factors, defaults should remain well below historical cycle peaks. The market's attractive total return potential is a function of its discount to face value and higher coupon, which also serves to cushion downside volatility. Notably, after recording an annual decline, the high yield market has historically delivered two consecutive years of positive returns in six of the seven cases[#], and forward 12- and 24-month return projections based on the current market yield have been consistent with mid to high single digits[##].

Longer-duration issues are the most likely to be impacted by high and volatile rates, but the overall high yield market should have a dampened response due to its larger coupon relative to other fixed income alternatives. As a result, US high yield bonds contribute from both a diversification and a relative performance perspective, offering a very compelling yield opportunity.

The Fund remains an attractive fixed income solution without taking excess credit risk, the shorter maturity puts securities first in line to repayment at par, and the Fund lessens price volatility that may be highly amplified in passively managed strategies.
